Miss Mary Monti of Westbury, R. I., Mrs. Mary Monti of Westbury, Mass., and Peter Rezetta, also of Westbury, who were summoned to Barre by the death of Miss Theresa Catte of 15 Berlin street, are passing several days with Mrs. Charles Catte.

The school building in the Carlton district in Barre Town has been thoroughly renovated and enlarged with a 12-foot addition during the summer, and a furnace is now being installed. More work was purchased for a playground and the main building was moved back a short distance.

A case of infantile paralysis has developed in the family of Raymond Diermer in the town of Plainfield, the patient being a young boy not yet in school. The little daughter of C. M. Howe of the Beckley hill district, who has been ill with the disease, is somewhat better, although unable to move her right leg.

There will be a parish supper at the Congregational vestry Wednesday evening, Sept. 30, at 6 o'clock. All members and friends of the church are invited. Those who attend are asked to contribute either food or money for the supper. In the evening a short program will be given and the ladies who have been earning money for the association will please bring it at that time. Come and enjoy a good supper and a social evening.

A cottage meeting will be held at the home of Gilbert Nelson, 41 Branch street, at 7:30 this evening by Evangelists L. F. Passobis and F. L. Abbott. All are cordially invited to attend. These evangelists, who carried on the evangelistic effort at the gospel tent this summer, have secured the use of the music hall, 122 Main street, in the Miles building, and will hold a service in the hall next Sunday night at 7:30. The subject for the evening will be "The Divine Plan of the Ages, God's Eternal Purpose and the Restoration of All Things."

Meadow Brook golfers, members of the club of that name, are manifesting a lively interest in the forthcoming contest for the president's cup. At a meeting of the executive committee last night it was decided to hold the play-off to-morrow and J. Black, the president, was instructed to serve notice on the various participants to the present at the links on Brook street Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The draw is as follows: A. Milne vs. J. Fraser; A. Kesson vs. J. McLeod; W. M. Pirie vs. J. Guals; J. Stephen vs. D. McLeod; J. Freeland vs. G. H. Fraser; A. Rools vs. R. Wright; W. Galletty vs. J. Clubb; G. Bernie vs. J. Palmer. Through The Times, the president urges upon every member the necessity for being on the grounds at the scheduled hour. It is hoped to have the contest concluded by nightfall if propitious weather permits.

Word was received in the city this week of the death of Dr. Stanley F. Duncan, who died at the home of his parents at Quincy, Mass., early Wednesday morning. He was the son of James Duncan, president of the granite cutters' national association and first vice-president of the American Federation of Labor. Dr. Duncan had been a sufferer from Hodgkin's disease for years, a rare ailment. A week ago he was lying in a bed near his office in South Quincy, Mass., when he was stricken. Dr. Duncan established medical offices in South Quincy, Mass., but a few months ago and during that time had acquired a large clientele. Dr. Duncan had resided at Quincy the greatest part of his life. He attended the McKinley Manual Training school in Washington, D. C., and after completing his course there entered the Quincy, Mass., high school. He graduated from that school in 1907 and then took a post-graduate course. He received a degree from Tufts Medical college in 1912. As house surgeon at the Malden City hospital for a year and a half, his work consisted of surgical work. While in high school he gained recognition as an athlete. He was a member of the Clon McGregor, O. S. C., at Quincy, Mass.

Were Greatly Appreciated.

Charles Hoernle, athletic director at Goddard seminary, has issued orders for all available football candidates to report for practice on the seminary campus Monday afternoon. Goddard will play its opening game of the season on Saturday, October 3, against Spaulding high school. From last season's track team there are but very few veterans remaining.

To see a team on the field for the opening game that will retrieve itself for the defeat suffered at the close of last season from Spaulding.

A large number of local people, most of whom have been employed by Jones Bros. at one time or another, went to Montpelier this morning, having been subpoenaed into county court to testify in the case of Russ vs. Good, a case instituted to recover damages in the sum of $2,000 for alleged personal injury, said to have been inflicted on Russ by the defendant Good. It is the claim of the plaintiff that Michael Good struck and maimed him in an altercation at Jones Bros' plant last winter. Henry Russ, the plaintiff, is represented by R. A. Hoar and S. Hollister Jackson has been retained by Good.

Police headquarters has received an inquiry from the authorities in Springfield, Mass., inquiring into the case of an itinerant biographer who is believed to have duped many people in New England since the beginning of the year. While the exact information desired in Massachusetts does not seem to be obtained in Barre, it doesn't follow that the local officers are without any knowledge of the man whom Springfield is seeking. If the tallying descriptions are reliable, the man made his appearance here last summer and induced a large number of business and professional men to subscribe to his book of Vermont biographies. How many men turned from their duties to give the agent their own life history and $25 to boot cannot be learned, but it seems certain that the agent was taken in by the agent's unctuous bearing. According to the Springfield police it has been shown that the agent is an imposter. He is still at large.

Through an inquiry made by Alderman John F. Cook of the aldermanic property committee, the status of the automobile in operation has been definitely established by an interpretation from Rufus E. Brown, attorney general, who says: "The question which you submit has been referred to me several times before an automobile is taken into the public streets for use it continues to be in use so long as it is kept in the public streets and should be lighted at night, whether in actual operation or not." Speaking generally, this is not the interpretation which local officials have given the statute this summer. Indeed, numerous arguments have grown out of differences of opinion in the matter, but in the main cars discovered after dark without their lights burning have not been detained unless they were in actual operation, as the attorney general phrases it. Consequently, according to those whose views coincide with those of Mr. Brown, the spectacle of cars packed along the street in the past few months without their rear lights burning has not been an uncommon one. In other respects, however, the automobile laws have been strictly enforced, as the city court records point to something like 16 arrests for alleged violations.

A traveling man who comes to Barre frequently arrived in town this morning with a sorry tale of having been robbed of $50 at the state fair in White River Junction last week. The trick was turned by a slick confidence man whom the drummer mistook for a native.

While mourning the loss of his roll, the traveler is even more chagrined by the fact that he was so easily relieved of his money within the borders of a rural state like Vermont.
